THAT IS WHAT THE JURY SAID OF THE WRECK.

The Storm Was Responsible for It—The Testimony of the Trainmen and the Superintendent—One Inquest Adjourned Until Monday to Get More Witnesses.

The inquest into the cause of the death of T. A. Stone and James Hines did not begin until yesterday afternoon, as the railroad men did not show up until then. When the first inquest began, that on the body of F. A. Stone, at Peril's there were present R. B. F. Pierce, chairman of the board of managing trustees, Superintendent L. A. Boyd, and Agent C. G. Dorwin, of the railroad, with W. C. Outten as attorney for the company.

The taking of evidence at once began. An extract from the testimony of J. T. Collins is here made, though his story has been previously published in this paper. He said: "The train stalled about three miles east of Decatur, remained there about 20 minutes, pulled on and stalled beyond Long Creek. Then it backed up Long Creek to make a run for the hill. The accident occurred after the stop, when we had been standing about three minutes. The brakeman came in after they had stopped and said an extra train was coming and he would go and flag it. I looked out but could see no train coming, as it was raining very hard. I had been washing my hands and was wiping them, when under the impulse of the moment I opened the door again and saw the engine close to us at full speed. I grabbed the hand-rail of the caboose and jumped to the north side. At that instant the accident occurred. I could see the brakeman 50 or 100 feet away, but could not hear the train because the wind was blowing."

M. Moulton, the rear brakeman of the rear train, said he started back in the rain, which was very heavy. On account of the rain he did not see the train until it was out to him. He got between one-quarter and one-half a mile away from the front train. He heard the engine of second train call for brakes, but did not know whether it was because the engineer had seen his signal or had seen the caboose ahead. They went by him and then the crash came. The first train had been stopped two or three minutes before the crash, which occurred between 3 and 4 o'clock. They left Decatur at 2:30. They stopped on Sangamon Hill, west of Long Creek. The rear train was going 10 or 12 miles an hour, was on a down grade, and could not have stopped in that distance. He knew a second train was to leave Decatur, but did not know when.

W. T. Davis, of 1304 East Eldorado street, the engineer of the second extra said they left Decatur about 3:30. They were going 15 or 18 miles an hour when he caught sight of the caboose of the train in front. The storm was bad, and it was a chance that he saw it at all. He reversed his engine one-fourth of a mile or more from the collision. He didn't see any one flagging him. When within two or three car lengths of the caboose he jumped off. The track was straight and he thought it was half a mile away that he first saw the caboose. As the rails were wet the brakes would not hold well. The first train left Decatur 50 minutes to one hour ahead of him.

Conductor B. F. Smead of the first train said after the train backed up he went in the Long Creek office to notify the second train to look out for them if it had not left Decatur. They had been standing three or four minutes when the crash came. They were stalled because the engine did not steam properly. There would have been no accident if it had not been storming.

D. E. Baldwin, conductor of the second train said they were about half a mile from Long Creek when the engineer whistled for brakes. On account of the storm he could not see his engine, only 10 car lengths away.

L. A. Boyd, superintendent of the I. D. & W. testified that the first engine was in good order.

That ended the taking of testimony. The jury found that F. A. Stone came to his death "by accident caused by a collision on the Indianapolis, Decatur & Western railroad during a severe storm of wind and rain, and that no blame should be attached to the trainmen in charge."

The verdict was something of a surprise to everybody, who hardly expected to see the road exonerated in that way. Other railroad men who had spoken of the matter expressed an opinion that the case was a bad one for the company.

THE HINES INQUEST was begun immediately afterward at J. B. Bullard's undertaking rooms with about the same persons present, besides the jury, which of course was different. This jury seemed to be of a more inquiring turn of mind, and asked a great many questions the other one had not thought of. The inquest was not finished.

D. E. Baldwin testified about the same as before, except that he said a great deal about the regulations, and the distances between the stations.

Conductor Smead of the first train also said about the same, except that he said a great deal more. He left Decatur at 2:45, and arrived at Long Creek a little after 3.

Brakeman Moulton, Engineer Davis and Superintendent Boyd all testified, but did not bring out anything new that could be considered material here. The inquest was adjourned until Monday, to get the engineer of the first train.

Easily Managed.

Mrs. Blink—There goes that handsome man into Widow de Young's again. He was there two hours this morning, too. I'd give anything to know who he is, and why he calls there.

Mr. Blink—Well, my friend Jinks is a census enumerator. I'll tell him to stop in and ask her.—New York Weekly.

WHO WON MONEY.

Masters of Interest About the Race Meeting.

The list of owners who won money, and the amount each one won, is given here. It gives rise to the question, "How can the horsemen keep on the turf?" Some of them came here, staid four days or longer, kept from 1 to 14 horses, and got perhaps $50 or $100. Some of them, and of course most of them, got nothing at all. Besides keeping their horses, paying their expenses here, hiring an army of stable boys and rubbers, the owners paid the entry fees, amounting to 10 per cent of the stakes in the races in which they entered. As there were eight or nine entries in some races, it may be seen that the horsemen paid from 65 to 70 per cent of the stakes. Some of the men are in the business for fun, but they don't get enough to pay for such an outlay as they make, so they must get their money back some way, or horse racing would soon play out as too expensive a luxury for anybody except a millionaire. The conclusion is that they get their money back from the pool boxes.

The owner of Edinburg said yesterday that Belva Lockwood was put in the race Friday to win it, and the horsemen had agreed that she should win it. The judges and every one else saw that so distinctly that they told Edinburg's driver he must win or some one would be put behind his horse that would.

These are the owners who won money and the amounts:

SMALL TOPICS.

The hotels had the best week in their history. It was a big thing for them.

The members of the association were well pleased with the character of the people who made up the bulk of the spectators at the races. They were among the best people in the city.

The wheel of fortune people carried more money away than anybody. One close guesser said they must have cleared $700 to $1,000 a day for the meeting. The proprietor of the scheme is worth $100,000.

A Prospect Hill Farm horse was easily recognizable any where by the fine training that was evident in its bearing. Their movements were graceful and pretty and they trotted all the time when trotting was their business.

The association can not tell yet what the expenses of the meeting were, and so can not tell how it came out. This much is certain, the receipts were a little above the expenses. As this was the first meeting that may be considered very satisfactory.

The merchants generally did not see a very big increase of business on account of the races, but some of them say they got enough out of it to pay for all they did to get the races. One wholesale firm received visits from customers they had been selling to for years, but never had a call from them before.

About all the horses left yesterday. Most of them went to Peoria, where the next and last meeting in the Illinois circuit opens next Tuesday. The T. H. & F. took 15 car loads, in which were 63 horses. The same road took Miller & Staley's 14 horses in an Arun patent horse car to Paris. They go direct from there to Franklin, Pa. Four car loads went to Aurora.

Argents.

Special Correspondence to THE REVIEW.

Yesterday was pay day on this division. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Griffin, R. Y. Sellers were among the Argentites in Decatur Saturday.

W. I. Dunbar & Co. expect to ship a great deal of grain from this point in the next few weeks.

Threshing will begin actively this week. The oat crop will yield better than was thought some time ago.

W. I. Dunbar has purchased the lumber yard of W. D. Kidders and will hereafter run it in connection with his own.

The ladies of the U. B. church gave a festival at the G. A. R. hall Saturday for the benefit of Rev. Trueblood, the pastor.

The Illinois Central has treated H. C. Griffin and J. F. Helmick to new fences along the track adjoining their land east of town.

There was a small turnout to the races from here, there being only 60 who went by rail. The train was held each evening until 5 o'clock.

A full attendance at the Good Templars lodge is desired on Monday night. Special and important business demands a full attendance.

W. D. Kidders' home is now completed and ready for occupancy. The foundation for the new Presbyterian church is being laid by Bolser Nein and J. L. Fesler.

W. I. Dunbar & Co. have increased the capacity of their elevator by adding another large bin and otherwise improving the building. They now have the best and handiest elevator on the line.

Dr. T. A. Parker, of Champaign, presiding elder of the M. E. church, preached at the M. E. church Saturday night and will fill that pulpit to-day. Rev. Trueblood will fill his pulpit at the U. B. church.

On account of the increased grain business of W. I. Dunbar & Co., it became necessary for the Illinois Central to make an extension to the side track. A work train and nearly 50 men have been here for that purpose and the work will be completed as soon as a set of switch ties arrive. This was a much needed improvement.

Dr. L. M. Lee, who sold his stock of drugs to Dr. E. H. Thomas, of New York, is packing his household goods for storage. He and his wife will travel in the east, visiting the principal cities and be absent for some time. They have not decided where they will locate, probably Decatur or Chicago. Dr. Thomas and family will occupy Dr. Lee's residence as soon as Mrs. Thomas arrives.

Northeast Eccentric.

A niece of Mrs. Pete Dempsey of Belknap, Ill., is visiting her this week.

Mrs. Mike Shanley's mother is suffering with a severe swelling on her hand.

Miss Mattie Morris received several nice birthday presents Thursday evening.

Herman Khuner of Davenport, Ia., is home for a few weeks visit to his parents.

Mrs. Gordon and little daughter of Peoria, are visiting Mrs. Wilderman, a sister of Mrs. Gordon on North Clayton street.

Mrs. Goodman, Mrs. Roake and others went to Greenwood cemetery Saturday evening to strew flowers on the grave of their former pastor, Rev. Creamer.

It is hoped that friends visiting them or who expect to make a visit, will give us the information we will have it inserted in this paper. If you have a party tell us about it or any other news.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Miss Mary Downing arranged a birthday surprise on Miss Mattie Morris at her home, 1505 North Cathoon street, it being her 16th anniversary. Those in attendance were Mary Downey, Thelma Blanton, Miss Ellis, Nellie Duncan, Maggie McKown, John McKown, John Smith, George Duncan, James Drury, Joe More, A. Bobbertson. The evening was spent in games and music. At 11 p. m. an elegant repast was served. At a later hour all departed for their homes feeling they had been highly entertained by Miss Mattie.

BATHING DRESSES.

A Writer Discovers Few Sensational Costumes.

SEASIDE GIRLS WEAR CLOTHES.

Notwithstanding the General Impression That They Don't, They Generally Garb Themselves in Voluminous Robes That Effectually Hide Their Charms.

[Copyright by American Press Association.] For many years it has been a custom to write about the generous displays of female form at the seaside resorts. Being an embryo writer I armed myself with a map camera, a field glass and a microscope, hoping to reap many dollars by visiting the bathing places and writing of the shocking things I saw.

Some places open earlier than others, and the first one to open is Coney Island, old Coney, so dear to the great unwashed of New York for so many generations. There are many women who go down to the sea there, and on Sunday afternoons when there is a vigorous surf rolling up on the hard beach thousands of interested spectators lean over the railings on the pier and watch the bathers. But alas for the verity of the newspaper scribbles, there is nothing to bring the blush to the cheek of a reporter unless it is the thought of the awful lies he has to tell to make a salable article.

The men look horrible and the women terrible, and the trouble with the bathing suits is that instead of being scanty they are far too voluminous, and so supremely ugly in cut and make that Venus herself would look a guy in them. Where are the slim waists, the rounded hips and the perfect outline of Mary Jane's bust when she doffs her own every day garments, in which she looks so enticing? Lost, alas, in the shapeless, limbless, everything-less creation is all that had made her charming. Now she looks like a scarecrow. And that handsome, portly, voluptuous woman whom I had noticed admiringly in all the glory of a lovely silken toilet? There she comes in a blue flannel suit, all her fine proportions seeming to have melted together; her feet are flat and there are seven-seen corns on her toes.

THE IMAGINARY PICTURE.

The pretty young faces, that looked sweet and fresh under their dainty bangs, grow haggard, pinched and blue under the combined effect of the ugliness of the bathing dress, the cold water and the wet stringiness of the hair, and when the arms are left bare your heartfelt wish is that they had been covered, so that imagination at least could have lent them a charm. Let no one think these are exceptions, for they are not. In a bathing dress a woman is either a skeleton or a shapeless mass, as for Coney Island, and Rockaway is just the same.

Cape May and Atlantic City bathers look like the others, only that here fewer girls wear the tag around their neck which signifies that the garments they wear are hired. But there can be slight differences only, since flannel is the proper thing to wear and no color but blue is lasting. The Cape May and Atlantic City girls are more apt to wear stockings to hide their corns than bathers at the two resorts first named, and apparently a little more taste is observed in the making of the dresses, which have some feeble attempts at trimming in the way of white braid, or bands or collars of scarlet or white, but the wearers are as graceless in the water here as elsewhere and as ugly as dragged hens. There is no going behind the truth, which is that to the sensation seeker there is little to attract, for fully half the dresses have long sleeves, as well as quite long Turkish trousers, and these are worn over black or dark hose that covers the thinnest and scrawniest looking underpinning that could support a human frame. And the blouses are made so as to conceal the outlines of the figures as well as to simulate them.

I looked in vain everywhere for the microscopical costumes. They were not visible, except on the bodies of some very lean young men, who doubtless would have been lost forever in one of the regulation suits.

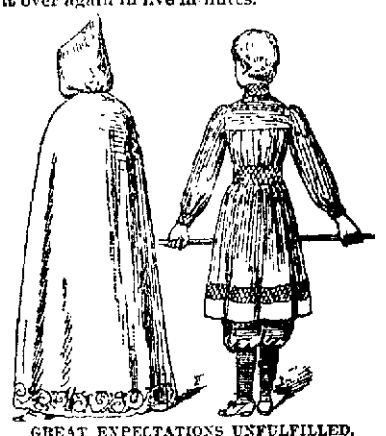

Coming back after my ineffectual search at Cape May and Atlantic City, I stopped at Ocean Grove, but there they have a board of inspectors who, it is said, regulate the style of bathing dress. And here there is no lying around on the sand between the dips allowed, no running about the beach in bathing costumes.

At Asbury Park there is a stifleless of that strict surveillance. I am sorry to say I did not find one single case of sensational costuming among the female bathers. Indeed, the shoe was on the other foot, for some men might have been far more delicate in their choice of costume. Among the women, even the youngest and prettiest, there were few short sleeves and no low necked bathing gowns, all being of the regulation style, with one or two exceptions in favor of striped serge or white flannel instead of the blue, but the make was the same and the shape of the wearers the same, and the black sheep in the human flock were, if anything, more modest in dress and manner than their sisters at Ocean Grove.

At Long Branch the bathers are usually of the "swell" variety except on Sundays, when they leave old ocean to the crowd which flock in from all available points. Here nearly all the summer boarders have their own suits, and come from the house to the beach arrayed in them, with a cloak thrown over all. Sometimes a curious crowd will watch with the greatest anxiety some mysterious figure covered in a still more mysterious cloak and hood, which they imagine may contain a delicious sensation for them, and after watching closely for a long time see the cloak left in the hands of a maid and a demure, scrawny, young woman step forth and walk down to the edge of the surf in a dress of flannel as modest as if made for the street.

And right here let me say that a woman in the surf is no more attractive than a wet dog, if as much so, and there are few of them that are not a nuisance to every one, what with their screams and the idiotic way in which they allow themselves to be knocked about. The life saver always looks resigned and miserable when they come and keeps near to catch them as they go rolling over in the surf and stand them on their feet again like rumpus, only to do it over again in five minutes.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS UNFULFILLED.

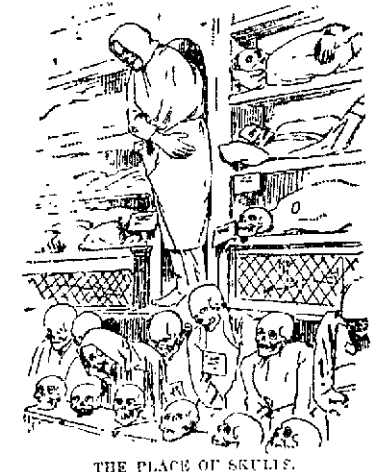

At Newport there are more bathers who can swim, and to swim well one cannot be burdened with too much clothing; still modesty in bathing costumes prevails there also, the imaginary pictures of beautiful creatures in next to nothing rolling about on the sand being nine-tenths bosh. The higher in the social scale the bather the more latitude she considers it her right to take in the matter of how little she wears. Yet even she is much belied, because she has discovered that sea air and sunlight on her arms and neck and shoulders injure the skin, and that she doesn't like, for the society belle of today understands herself thoroughly and does not want to destroy or injure one atom of her beauty.

It is, however, true that the high society girl of Newport and Narragansett Pier will go farther than would be allowed to the poor girls who have a reputation to sustain without the help that money and position give. In some places the society girls are content with the bathing. In these two places they want admiration with it, and I noticed that many of them wore obvious corsets.

But sad as the fact is for those who would like to furnish several columns of sensation on the subject of dress at the seashore it is the honest man's duty to deny the prevalence of sensational costumes.

A Horrid Exhibition.

The earth of the Cemetery of the Capucini at Palermo, according to the London edition of The New York Herald, has the property of so hastening decomposition as to reduce bodies placed therein to practically the condition of mummies, the skin

THE PLACE OF SKELLS.

and bones remaining intact while the flesh disappears. The bodies are then clothed by the relatives and displayed in subterranean galleries. Whole rows of useless, skin covered skulls grin from revealed to the visitor as he descends, or are revealed by openings in coffins. "But," says The Herald's correspondent, "randomly the ugliest of the sights is the ladies' gallery. Corpse worship here has prompted freaks of burlesque millinery, such as the trimming of vacant skulls with deep frills of lace. One poor shade lay in purple silk. A young lady's mummy was adorned with a silver crown, fantastic shoes, open work stockings and white kid gloves."

He Has Killed Three Men.

Jerre Dunn, the race horse owner, was recently on the witness stand of the supreme court in New York. A lawyer asked him how many men he had killed. To the surprise of every one he replied, "Three." He afterward told the story to a reporter. One of the men he killed was named James Logan—the same who murdered Millionaire Rogers many years ago in New York. Dunn was a bitter enemy of a judge who had been instrumental in securing Logan's release, and Logan, out of gratitude to the judge, attacked Dunn with a knife. Dunn shot him through the heart. For this affair Dunn was finally imprisoned for two years. Before that, during the war, Dunn was a recruiting officer, and killed a houny jumper during a fight. In 1888 he killed, in Chicago, after a half hour's struggle, Jimmie Elliott, the prize fighter. Elliott was the aggressor.

IT WAXES WARM.

The Present Status of the Big Baseball Battle.

SOME STORIES WHICH ARE TOLD.

W. L. Harris Gives a Few Rumors for What They Are Worth, Discusses the Pennant Race in the Players' League and Writes a Gossipy Letter.

The baseball situation today as regards the fight between the two big organizations appears to be no nearer settlement than it was a month ago; but the events of the past week have put a stopper into the mouths of those Players' league magnates who have been so continuously vociferous recently in their assertion that never, never, would they ever agree upon a compromise of any nature, direct or indirect. What has silenced the new magnates is the attendance in the east. Here are the figures for five days, July 7-11:

	Players' League	National League
New York	5,917	2,251
Boston	4,542	12,039
Philadelphia	4,753	14,094
Brooklyn	2,851	8,174
Totals	17,963	28,078

So far, the figures I have not at hand, but the proportion between the two leagues was very nearly maintained.

Now, it is asked, why this revulsion of feeling in the east? My friend Frank Hough remarked recently that Ewing claims to have the old Leaguers on the run, and Day claims that the Players are on the run, but in the meanwhile the public seems to have both on the run. This was a witty way to put it, and when Frank perpetrated the mot it was true enough, and generally speaking is true now, although off the mark for last week. These three opinions represent the two extremes and a humorous medium. Seriously, conservative critics assign good reasons for the slump in the attendance at the Players' league games, and I quote one of them mainly because it seems to me that he talks sense, and somewhat because his views are in accord with all the arguments advanced by me during the battle as to the final point on which the question of patronage would be decided.

"There is nobody on the run just at present," asserted my conservative friend, "but there may be if the conditions prevailing this last week could be continued. I admire baseball for itself. To me the player's personality or his league is of very little moment. Of course such men as Ewing, Kelly and Latham are exceptions to my rule, but I insist that even they must play ball to get my money. I have hustled back and forth from one ground to the other here, going where I expected to see the best ball. The winning or losing of the home teams has largely influenced my choice. The reasons for the National league preponderance last week were easily found."

In Brooklyn Ward's team have seldom been in it anyway, and with Cincinnati and Brooklyn struggling for the lead in the league, while Deacon White's alleged team were chasing base hits at Eastern park. Ward's team were out of it altogether. Take Boston. The National leaguers started in to play ball about June 12, and since then have won 23 out of 27 games. Meanwhile the Boston Players' team have lost their long lead, have barely divided honors with opposing teams and have through it all played poor ball. Critical Boston wouldn't stand it, and hence the turn over. In Philadelphia the mismanagement and low position of the Players' team in the race as compared with the fine showing of Harry Wright's team has increased the League tendencies of that city.

In New York the Players' team has won two games to one for Mutrie's men, and this with the general impression that the latter are not in the pennant race has intensified the Brotherhood tendencies in New York and enabled the Players' league team to retain its average of over two for one. These are the reasons stated briefly, and summed up they mean that the best playing and best attractions will in most of the cities, and eventually in a large Brooklyn, where peculiar permanent conditions exist, get the crowds."

The latest stories sprung by the industrious baseball fakirs are, first that the players of Mr. Byrne's team have agreed to join the Players' league in 1901, and second that the players of the Cincinnati team have already signed contracts to the effect. I doubt if there is a word of truth in either story, but it is very possible that the players have been approached.

They are well paid, they are getting their salaries, and there is nothing so far in the course of the Player's league to show that they stand any chance to get anything more than their salaries in that organization. Brunell's famous $240,000 of profits have not accrued and are not likely to. There is another story that Mr. Dunn will jump his team into the Players' league. So far as I can discover there is not the least foundation to the statement.

The fight for the Players' league pennant is getting warm in '01. Four clubs are still in it, and they shift about worries their admirers until no one can make up his mind to pick a winner. I will hang out for Kelly's team in spite of their weakness in the box. New York and Chicago are playing good ball, and will push the leaders close for a while at least. The Brooklyn men are still pegging away, and this said feel confident of success. That is a great deal toward getting it, but unless Ward and Ewing find some pitchers they will have a long time trying to beat out Boston and Chicago and small chances of success.

The Boston, Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Cincinnati teams have been making a famous fight in the National league. Brooklyn has got on top and Cincinnati has relinquished the lead. I think the Reds will hardly be able to regain it on this trip, and will do well to keep well up in the swim until they return home. The present conditions indicate a big fight between Boston, Philadelphia and Brooklyn, with the percentage of chances in favor of the former. If Boston ever gets in front in their present brace they will come near holding it. The Phillies have greater staying power than I thought and have a golden opportunity to win. It is 10 to 5 that they will finish one, two, three.

The great superiority of New Haven and Baltimore over their opponents in the Atlantic association bids fair to wreck the organization as the preponderance of Jersey City and Newark in playing ability wrecked the Central league. Baltimore and New Haven might save things by an equal division of gate receipts.

Ball players will be very reasonable in demands for salary next season. Getting a job will be of more importance than the size of the salary. Put a spike in this prediction.

W. L. HARRIS.

The excavation for the Broadway sewer reached North street yesterday. The street car company was laying an extra track yesterday close to the walk. It will be used while the sewer is being built between North and Eldorado streets. The sewer will go up the center of the street. At present it is completed to the alley between North and William streets.

The machine has been doing good work, and greatly assisted in making rapid progress until yesterday, when an iron rod broke. While that was being repaired the shovelers had to do all the work.

The contractor has had a streak of luck. For some distance the sewer has been laid in a good hard bed of sand. This not only makes a good bottom, but the sand is of the best quality, and is used in building the sewer. But little sand has been bought so far. As sand costs 85 cents a wagon load, it may be seen what a saving that is.

The number of people who may be always found watching the work on the sewer is surprising. At all times of the day from 25 to 75 men may be seen looking down the trench, standing on the sidewalk or sitting on the fence looking on idly, and discussing the plans and methods of operation. If Contractor Hunt would only take some of the many brilliant suggestions made by his spectators he could finish the work in a week or two and make a pile of money for himself.

To Boston. County Treasurer George R. Steele has received a circular from the Department of Illinois, G. A. H. about the trip to Boston at the time of the National encampment that will be of general interest.

The Illinois Department train will leave Chicago at 10 p. m. of Friday, August 8, via the Wabash Niagara Falls Short Line. The route from Chicago will be via Detroit to Niagara Falls, where a stop of several hours will be made, thence east via West Shore Line to Rotterdam Junction, thence via Hoosac Tunnel and Fitchburg Route.

The fair from Chicago to Boston and return, is $19. Application for sleeping car accommodations should be made immediately, as there is a great demand for sleeping car accommodations.

The headquarters of the department of Illinois while in Boston will be at the Hotel Brunswick, Boylston and Clermont streets, opposite Trinity church. Comrades desiring quarters must apply to Barnes & Dunkle, proprietors. The rate is $5 a day for not less than four days. Mrs. John A. Logan will be the guest of the Department of Illinois, and accompany our delegation to Boston.

Two Toughs.

Marshal Mason was told yesterday that two suspicious looking men were trying to sell a new $25 suit of clothes for $4 at the race track. The marshal went out there but the men had left. He got a description of them however, and coming down town saw them on the street. They didn't have the clothes then. Calling Officer Kirkbride the fellows were arrested. At first they denied ever being at the race track, and then admitting that asserted positively that they never offered any clothes for sale. Good witnesses declared positively that they were the men. The clothes could not be found, so it is supposed they were successful in selling them. Both are locked up.

For Assault.

J. B. Nooe and his brother are locked up in the Franklin street station on suspicion of having badly pounded an unknown man last night in Howell's pasture. They were seen dragging the stranger into the pasture and persons who watched say they pounded him shamefully. Two pools of blood were found there afterward, and the path of the victim was followed some distance by the drops of blood. Officer Williamson was notified. He and Ed Leech got the Nooes and locked them up. The assaulted one could not be found, but it is thought to have been Bill Gibson, a young farmer near the city.

A New Company.

The Linn & Scruggs dry goods and carpet company began business yesterday, as was shown by the articles of incorporation placed on file in the circuit clerk's office. The stockholders are W. H. Linn, W. R. Scruggs, Robert Morris, W. S. Grubbs, J. H. B., Blackstone and W. W. Linn. They are also the directors. W. H. Linn is president and W. S. Grubbs, secretary and treasurer. The business of the company will be conducted on the honest, enterprising plan that made the firm of Linn & Scruggs so successful.

Insane.

A more than usually sad insanity case was before Judge Nelson yesterday morning. Miss Sarah McGinty, a pretty girl just past 17, was adjudged insane at the request of her mother, who stated her affliction was the result of the grip. The jury were loth to bring in the verdict, but there was plainly nothing else to do, as the young lady's actions showed that she was of unsound mind. She will be sent to an asylum as soon as she can be admitted.

Salvationists in Camp.

A big Salvation Army campmeeting will begin tomorrow at Oakland park, under the direction of Major and Mrs. Stillwell, assisted by prominent officers from other cities. The divisional brass band will be in attendance. It is expected there will be a great many in camp, and a big attendance all the time. The meeting will last till July 30. An admission fee of 5 cents will be charged.

Good Haul by Burglars.

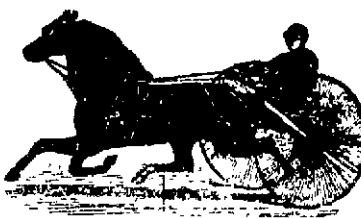

The Hockaday store, at Mt. Zion, was entered by burglars Friday night, who made a good haul. They got away with $150 in cash, a watch and a revolver. There was no clue to the burglars.

The Way He Should Go.

Boulder—Anything gone wrong in your family? When I met your youngest boy just now he was crying as though his heart would break.

Boulder—Gone wrong? Well, I should ejaculate if things haven't been going just right, with a big R! I told the kid that I'd climb all over him the next time I heard him talking slang. See?—Texas Siftings.

Exciting Time at a Political Meeting in the South.

A REPORTER WITH MUCH NERVE.

He Calls a Man Who Is Making a Political Speech a Liar, Which Nearly Ends in Bloodshed—Kutzes Draws and an Attempt Made to Put the Speaker Off the Stand—Policemen Defied by the Reporter.

CHARLESTON, S. C., July 19.—The political meeting at Marion, Thursday, came the nearest of any yet to ending in bloodshed. Tillman, the Alliance candidate, in the course of his speech, brought the trouble on. He has been denouncing The Charleston News and Courier at all the campaign meetings, his favorite expression being that "lying, rotten sheet." On this occasion he added: "If any of you take it just look at this meeting to-day and read the report of it in that sheet."

Gave Tillman the Lie Direct.

At this, Shirley C. Huggins, who was reporting the meeting for The News and Courier, rose, and, going up to Tillman, said: "Capt. Tillman, if you mean to say, sir, that I have misrepresented you, you are an infernal liar, and the truth is not in you." The two men were within five feet of each other, and the eyes of both men sparkled with anger and resentment. Tillman turned around and faced the newspaper man, making some remark, which was drowned by the noise.

A Wild Rush for the Platform.

They stood glaring at each other for a minute or more, and in the meantime the crowd began to sway with excitement. A chorus of voices cried: "Put him off the stand! Put him off the stand!" and there was a wild rush for the platform. The straight out Democrats, however, crowded around Huggins, and kept the enraged Tillman at bay. A score or more of these crowded upon the stage with open knives and other weapons of defense. Again and again the cry rang out: "Put him off! Put him off! Put him off!"

Defied the Police.

In obedience to the command, three or four policemen, with drawn clubs, climbed over the banisters of the platform and started toward Mr. Huggins, who stood with one hand in his hip pocket and defied them to put their hands on him. Huggins in the meantime was completely surrounded by his friends and the policemen were forced back to the ground. The platform literally trembled under the weight and strain and every moment threatened a hand-to-hand struggle between the two factions, but order was restored without a fight.

Must Belong to the Church.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 19.—Rabbi Hecht's Jewish congregation here has taken an important step, which, it is said, is to be followed by all the Jewish churches in the country. According to the decision no Jewish rabbi hereafter will be allowed to perform any church service for any person who is not a member in good standing of some Jewish congregation. The order includes marriages, baptisms, funerals, and all other services performed by rabbis. It is claimed that persons who contribute nothing for the maintenance of churches take advantage of the rabbis when they die or want to get married. It is thought this new move will compel most Israelites to unite with some church.

New Method of Working Iron.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A special to the Tribune from St. Paul, Minn., says: C. A. Daugh, of the Westinghouse Electric company, has been in Tower, Minn., at the iron mines for the last week, experimenting with electricity and iron ore in the interest of his company. He declares that he has discovered a process by which he can centre the rays of an arc light upon a piece of iron ore, and thereby soften it to such a degree as to be able to work it with a greatly reduced amount of labor.

The Work of Lightning.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Near Catlin, Ill., Friday, lightning struck the daughter of Alonzo Busby, bursting the drums of both her ears. A number of cattle were also killed in the neighborhood, and two houses and many hay stacks were burned. Lightning also struck Charles Hathaway at Napanee, Ind., melting silver coins in his pockets but leaving no mark upon his body. Edward Neuffer was also killed near the same place, while at work in the fields, and his entire body was flayed.

A Company with $10,000,000 Capital.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 19.—In the office of the secretary of state Saturday articles of consolidation and incorporation were filed by the Debardeleben Coal and Iron company, the Bessemer Iron and Steel company, and the Little Belle Iron and Steel company, all corporations organized and existing by and under the laws of the state of Alabama, with a capital stock of $10,000,000.

His Honor Had a Close Call.

LONDON, July 19.—During the severe thunderstorm which swept over London Friday lightning struck and dislodged one of the ornamental figures on Westminster hall. The figure fell to the pavement below, and barely missed the head of Hon. Sir William Grantham, justice of the court of queen's bench. Had it struck him, it would most certainly have killed him.

Horrors at Elzeroum.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 19.—The reports of renewed and increased disorder at Elzeroum are reported. The threat of the Mussulmen to sack the Christian quarters has alarmed the residents of that district and they are moving out with all possible haste. Men and women have been murdered without provocation and a number of women have been carried off.

Nearly Demolished the Town.

ERIE, Pa., July 19.—A hurricane struck the town of Girard, west of Erie, Thursday afternoon and came near demolishing the town. Scores of houses and barns were unroofed, and the Presbyterian church was almost destroyed. The people were terrorized. The damage to trees and farm property will be heavy.

Nominated for Governor.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 19.—The Hon. John P. Buchanan, a farmer and president of the State Farmers' alliance, was nominated for governor by acclamation by the Tennessee state Democratic convention Friday. Mr. Buchanan has served three terms in the legislature.

DISTRESSINGLY HEALTHY.

A Witty Letter from a Health Officer to His Superior.

LANSING, Mich., July 19.—Secretary Baker, of the state board of health, recently wrote to Health Officer Davis, of Clare village, Clare county, criticizing him for failing to send in the required weekly report. The latter's prompt and earnest reply is as follows: "The reason why I do not report more sickness is this: The facts are that the village of Clare is a distressingly healthy place. There has not been enough sickness in the last two or three years to do much good. The physicians find time to go to Milwaukee on excursions, serve as jurors in justice courts, sit around on dry goods boxes and beg tobacco, chew gum and swap lies."

Hoping for Good Business.

"A few sporadic cases of measles have existed, but they were treated mostly by old women and no physician called. No deaths occurred. There was an undertaker in the village, but he is now in state's prison, and the council of the village out the pay of the health officer down from $30 to $15 per year. It is hoped and expected when green truck gets around, when melons are plenty and cucumbers exist in abundance that dysentery, cholera morbus or something may revive business. If it does I will let you know. I hope this explanation will be satisfactory."

A Fortune Teller Caused Her Death.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 19.—Miss Jennie McDonald, of Duquesne, Thursday left two notes, one for her aunt, with whom she was living, and the other for her lover, saying she was going to commit suicide. Thursday night her hat and cloak were found on the banks of the Monongahela river and she has been missing since. Two weeks ago Miss McDonald visited a fortune teller in this city, who told the young lady she would die on the 14th of August and be buried in the dress she was to be married in. It is feared she brooded over this till she became insane and jumped into the river.

Electric Light Litigation.

NEW YORK, July 19.—An interlocutory decree signed by Judge Cox, of the United States circuit court, was filed there Saturday in the suit of the Brush-Swan Electric Light company against the Brush Electric company, of New York. The decree enjoins the defendant from interfering with the sales of plaintiff and restrains the defendants from selling electrical appliances in the states and territories held under contract for seven years by the plaintiff. A reference was ordered to take testimony and report an accounting of defendant to plaintiff regarding sales.

Death of Eugene Schuyler.

CAIRO, July 19.—Eugene Schuyler, the American consul general here, died Friday. Long prominent in diplomatic circles, his career was such as to make him a public figure. He was honored by President Grant with the post of secretary of legation at St. Petersburg and later at Paris, and not the least interesting act of his was the writing of a searching book upon the land of the czar. President Harrison named him to the post he occupied here six months ago, but his pronounced views on certain topics caused his nomination long to hang fire before confirmation.

His Submarine Made Him Famous.

LONDON, July 19.—Spain has decided to build a whole flotilla of submarine produced by the inventor, Perat. Each boat will be constructed with accommodations for from twenty to fifty men. Perat is for the time being the greatest man in Spain. The Spaniards believe that his invention will place the nation in the forefront of the great naval powers of the world.

Said a Good Word for Jeff Davis.

MT. VERNON, N. Y., July 19.—Local Grand Army circles are agitated over the refusal of Farnsworth post No. 173 to receive the monthly dues of Capt. S. M. Saunders, a Union veteran and member of the guard, because he made complimentary remarks concerning Jefferson Davis in response to a military banquet speech in Savannah two years ago.

Juliet Curryman Return to Work.

JOLIET, Ill., July 19.—The strike of the stone quarry men has failed, and the men are quietly and gradually returning to work, and the quarries are resuming operation. The stone quarry owners claim to have been damaged considerably by the loss of orders, while the men have thrown away a month's work.

Killed by a Windlass Crank.

ASHLAND, Wis., July 19.—Pat Malone was taking up two men from the Eureka mine pit when he slipped, his hold on the crank and the bucket commenced to drop. In an effort to get control of the windlass he was struck on the head, the blow killing him instantly.

In Financial Difficulties.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The McCormick-Connelly & Co., leather manufacturers at Newark, N. J., are financially embarrassed and a receiver has been applied for. The liabilities of the firm are estimated at $100,000 and the assets at $200,000.

Mrs. Parnell Seriously Ill.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., July 19.—Mrs. Parnell, mother of the Irish statesman, is suffering from cholera morbus and is confined to her bed. Owing to her age and general poor condition of health her illness is considered serious.

A Great Ware House Burned.

LIVERPOOL, July 19.—The immense warehouse of the Manchester Canal company in this city was burned Friday, together with an enormous amount of cotton, grain, flour, etc., stored therein. The loss is $30,000.

An Entire Family Poisoned.

RENO, O., July 19.—G. Dennis, member of the city council, and his entire family, were poisoned by eating canned fish. Physicians worked all night and saved their lives, but Mrs. Dennis is still seriously ill.

Fatal Kerosene Explosion.

BOSTON, Mass., July 19.—By an explosion of a kerosene stove at Three Rivers, Mrs. William Prairie was fatally injured, and Mrs. Henry Rivers was badly burned about the head and arms, and became insane.

Couldn't Live and Be Blind.

LYONS, Iowa, July 19.—Lewis Grandup, aged 22, has disappeared from his home in North Clinton, and as he was threatened with total blindness it is feared he has killed himself.

Found Dead in Bed.

CLINTON, N. Y., July 19.—Dr. Christian Henry F. Peters, the astronomer, was found dead in bed Saturday morning.

A VERY CLOSE CALL.

Collision of Steamships in the Detroit River.

ONLY ONE LIFE LOST BY THE CRASH

If the Derangement of the Machinery on One of the Steamers Had Happened—Moment Later an Appalling Disaster Would Have Been the Result—A Freighter Sunk and an Excursion Boat Escaped with Little Damage.

DETROIT, Mich., July 18.—At 6.30 o'clock Thursday evening a most disastrous collision occurred about a mile below this city, exactly opposite the exposition buildings. The boats involved were the huge steel side-wheel passenger steamer City of Detroit, and the screw freighter Kasota, of Cleveland. The latter was ore-laden from Lake Superior to Cleveland. The City of Detroit was returning from Put-in-Bay, with some 1,500 excursionists on board. As the boats approached each other one whistle, and everything seemed perfectly safe, but when less than two lengths apart the City of Detroit was noticed to begin to sheer to port, at the same time giving several quick, short blasts of her whistle. The captain of the Kasota, comprehending that something was wrong and the danger imminent, immediately ordered his wheel hard aport, but before she could answer the wheel the big side-wheeler was into her, and, in fact, on top of her.

Sinking of the Kasota.

The Kasota was struck almost of the main mast, and before the City of Detroit's headway was stopped her bow was nearly to the Kasota's stern. In less than a minute and a half the Kasota was on the bottom, the confined air bursting her cabins off as she went down. Her spars were broken off and pilot house knocked over, probably from contact with the steamer's guards. The second cook of the Kasota, a woman, who shipped in Chicago, named Mrs. Sickney, was drowned. She was endeavoring, with others, to get on top of the after cabin, but was drawn under. Others of the crew had exceedingly narrow escapes. Capt. Fleck of the Kasota and a crew of seventeen were rescued by row boats and yachts that were in the vicinity of the accident at the time. The captain's wife was saved by a seaman diving after her as she was sinking.

Explanation of the Disaster.

Judge Nichols, of Batavia, Ohio, an excursionist on the City of Detroit, was quite severely injured by the breaking of some shrouds, and his son and three or four other passengers were slightly hurt, all of whom except the judge are able to continue their trip up the lakes. The passengers were removed by two tugs, however, was merely precautionary, as she followed them into her dock. Her damage to hull is placed at $20,000, and she will be on the dry docks for three weeks. The explanation of the disaster is stated to be the jamming of the City of Detroit's steam steer just at that critical instant. If the derangement of the machinery had, however, occurred a few seconds sooner, so that the City of Detroit had not got across the Kasota's bows and received that boat's bow, the result would have been something frightful.

A Panic on Board.

A large portion of the excursionists were women and children, and the panic on board for five minutes was terrible. When it was seen that the steamer was resting quietly on the Kasota, quiet was soon restored. The Kasota's machinery will be recovered. She is exactly in the middle of the river and in nearly forty feet of water. The Kasota was one of the largest class on the lakes. She was built in Cleveland in 1884, and registered 1,274 tons. She is owned by J. H. Webb & Co., of Cleveland, is valued at $12,000, and is a total wreck. At the time of the collision she had the schooner Thomas P. Sheldon in tow, which let go her tow-line and passed the wreck safely and came to anchor a mile below.

Another Vessel Sunk.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 18.—A telegram from Ashkubla states that the large schooner Verona was run into and sunk just outside the harbor Friday morning, by the large propeller Cambria. A heavy northeast gale was blowing and the Verona drifted across the Cambria's bow. No lives were lost. Word has been received from Fairport that the schooner Superior is hard ground near that place. ## WHAT ARE THE PROFITS?

There are none so blind as those who will not see is an old saying; and if you would like some evidence of its truth, just note a few of the recent efforts of The Rep's mind.
Some days ago THE REVIEW had something to say about that abortion known as the "home market." This market was discussed as it affected the farmer, and the line of discussion went along the way of comparison with other markets that are not hoodooed by the word "home." Attention was called to the way the farmer is treated in the English market. It was shown that on a certain day the price of wheat in Liverpool was 21 cents more a bushel than in Chicago, and 26 cents higher than in Decatur. Then it was shown that the better English market made it possible for the farmer in England to do more than would be thought of by one of our farmers. It was pointed out that a man in that country having a fee simple title to 300 acres of fair land might swell around creation as a nab-
ob. It was pointed out that families in that country are making a living on 10
acres of land, and paying big rent besides.
These facts were mentioned to show the possibilities there are in an acre of land.
The Rep has some sort of answer to make,
one that can be sincere, one that the writer knew was evading the point raised. The Rep man read what THE REVIEW had to say and then went on:

When we read this the ghost of poor old Ireland rises before us. It will only be a matter of time when THE REVIEW will be pointing the American farmer to the plutocratic courses of the Irish farmer as an evidence of the beauties of free trade in creating a home market. Who is the English farmer to whom THE REVIEW calls our attention? He is the poor tenant whose lifeblood is sucked 265 days every year by the English landlord, since free trade has been the practice there. Talk about the tariff being a tax on the consumer and the producer of trusts when the land from which everything is produced in Great Britain is held by a capitalistic trust. In America the most independent class of people we have are our farmers; while in England, the farmer, who THE REVIEW says is not robbed of millions every year to build up a home market, is now and forever will remain a mere serf.

Now it is to be supposed that articles on this trade question are written to be read by men who are giving the matter an honest investigation. When the first article was written for THE REVIEW it was for-seen that just such a turn might be given to the matter as The Rep afterwards did.
But it was not thought that the South
Water people would get down to that kind of work. We should expect the answer in a street corner discussion of politics, but never looked for it in cold print.

Now THE REVIEW does not think that the condition of the Irish tenant is a happy
one, and perhaps the condition in England is no better. But let us call your attention to the fact that it is not a trade regulation that presses on that tenant. Hard as is his lot, it would be infinitely worse if his 10
acres of land and the rent that goes with it were transferred to Illinois. The trade policy of Great Britain is not the thing that presses on the tenant. That policy does what it can to help him out by giving him
the best market in the world. And the tenant is not charged a cent for that market.

The thing to which THE REVIEW wishes to call the attention of our farmers is that their produce sells best in the best trade market in England. And the Irish tenant gets 21 cent more for a bushel of wheat
than any farmer in Illinois can get in Chicago. The men who made England's markets gave the farmers a better price for their labor than they get in any other part of the world. This is a matter that will hardly admit of dispute. The quotations from Liverpool are before you any day in the week, as also are those from Chicago.
Take up the newspapers, republican or democratic, and compare those quotations.

Now then, when the republican stump orator and newspaper go to the farmer of Illinois and ask him to vote a protection of 47 per cent to some manufacturers in this country in order to keep up this glorious
"home market" of ours, let that farmer point to a market in another land that is better than ours, and to the maintenance of which the farmer is not asked to contribute.
And then, gentlemen, tell us why we should pay 47 per cent for an inferior article while others get something superior for nothing?
And you can answer this by saying that the tenant in Ireland is in a poor way. We might call your attention to the prosperity of the man who owns a farm in that country. Our people are supposed to own theirs; and if you are partial to comparisons, please show that you know enough about the subject not to compare the landlords of our country with the tenants of another. When the man in Macon county who owns a farm begins to investigate to learn what is his share of the world's goods
he will not be willing to compare his receipts with those of some two-acre-tenant in another country. Our farmer is a landlord on the record and he should ask the right to stand up with landlords in any part of the world.

But the market question is not one of
landlordism; it is entirely one of profits.
Three hundred acres of land in Great Britain give their owner an income that can be approached by the same amount of land in Illinois. In addition to this, 30 families make a living off the same land. The thing can be done here; and why? The profits from agriculture are not so great with us.
Our farmer sells his wheat at 26 cents less
on the bushel than the man in England;
and then our farmer pays a premium of 47
per cent on his purchases for this privilege which patriotic politicians say he has.

And when you speak of the Irish tenant and his hard lot, we admit that there are awful burdens grinding him down. It is the history of the world that the man who tills the soil is made a slave. But those men are growing wiser. The Irish tenant bends under burdens, but he knows it. And if you will give that tenant the power to remove those burdens, landlordism will not last a day in Ireland.

When Ex-Governor Foraker, of Ohio,
was telling the republican convention in that state what his party lost in last fall's election he ought to have gone ahead and told what the party had gained. When it beat the candidate for governor it managed to break away from as rank a barnacle as ever fastened itself to an old and rotting ship. Perhaps the ex-governor would not regard this as a gain, but he might try it on the convention and see how it would take.

The Rep objects to the resolutions passed in this city by the F. M. B. A. It brands them as "barnabon" and "deserving." Well, do the F. M. B. A. men know what they want? The growl from South Water means that they can't get what they asked for from the republican party. The Rep will oblige us by opening its mouth again.

We understand that Capt. DeWitt Columbus Shockley does not think the bricks
in the Decatur race track were well burned.
The rain of Thursday afternoon brought on
a lot of mud and thereby excited his suspicions.

Early in the season the Maroa Reds

they were badly beaten. The Kennys had a game billed for last Friday with the Lincolns, but the latter could not go, so they sent for our boys, who went over and beat them by a score of 18 to 13. Not having sufficient notice, three of the best players could not go, among them being one of our pitchers. Both of our pitchers being young, one usually relieves the other about the middle of the game, so had the other one been there when the score stood 18 to 4
in favor of Maroa to have relieved Persing, the defeat would have been worse. Kenney had two men from Hallsville and one from

ORIGINAL PACKAGES.

Congress Will Have Something to Say About Them.

THE BILL COMES UP IN THE HOUSE.

The Resolution Providing for Its Consideration Adopted After a Squabble Between Several Members—The Land Grant Forfeiture Bill Passed by the House—The Day's Doings in the Senate
—Contested Election Cases.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 18.—In the house Friday morning Cannon, from the committee on rules, reported a resolution providing for immediate consideration of the original package bill, the previous question to be ordered on Monday immediately after the reading of the journal;
that the bankruptcy bill be taken up, the previous question to be considered as ordered on Wednesday after the reading of the journal. Breckinridge of Kentucky raised the question of consideration, but the house decided by a vote of 115 to 56 to consider the resolution. McMillin of Tennessee objected to the method of procedure. The house of representatives should govern itself and not be governed by the committee on rules. Outhwaite of Ohio said that he favored the bankruptcy bill as reported, but if an attempt was made to rush it through the house, he would oppose its passage.

Modified the Resolution.
Taylor, of Ohio, asked how the gentleman under his oath could vote against a bill which he favored simply because he was offended. Outhwaite replied that he would oppose it, because there might be
other representatives who had not given it a careful consideration. Cannon, of Illinois, did not conceive that it was in the power of any committee to propose legislation that would meet with the approval of the other side. After further discussion, at the suggestion of Adams,
of Illinois, the resolution was modified so as to provide that appropriation bills shall not interfere with the consideration of the two bills, and it was then adopted. The original package bill was taken up.

Senate Proceedings.
In the senate, after some minor business, the resolution offered Thursday by Allison, to limit debate to five minutes to each senator on amendments to appropriation bills, after some explanation as to its scope, was laid aside without action. The consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill was resumed, the pending question being the irrigation provision in the like bill of Oct. 2, 1888, and Reagan
continued his speech against the amendment and in favor of the irrigation scheme initiated by that act. Dawes, from the committee on Indian affairs, reported back without recommendation the president's message vetoing the bill to change
the boundaries of the Uncompagure Indian reservation with a bill as a substitute for the vetoed bill. The bill and the message were placed on the calendar for future action.

CAPITAL CITY NEWS NOTES.

Contested Election Cases.
WASHINGTON CITY, July 18.—The elections committee of the house Friday decided two of the four remaining contested election cases on its docket by party votes
in favor of the contestants, both Republicans.
The cases are those of Goodrich vs.
Bullock from the Second district of Florida and of McGinniss vs. Alderson from the Third district of West Virginia. There were contests in three out of the four congressional districts in West Virginia and
the elections committee has decided in favor of the Republican contestant in each case. The remaining cases to be disposed of by the committee are those of Clayton vs. Breckinridge, from Arkansas, and of Eaton vs. Pielman, from Tennessee. Three cases are awaiting disposition by the house.

The Pension for Mrs. Fremont.
WASHINGTON CITY, July 18.—The bill
for a pension to the widow of Gen. Fremont is pretty sure to go through this session. When the Pathfinder was placed on the retired list of the army a good many members were moved by the fact that they were doing something for the daughter of Thomas H. Benton as much as rewarding Gen. Fremont's services to his country. The pay which the old general received as a retired officer ceased with his death, and his family only enjoyed for two or three months the benefits it was intended to confer on them, so Jessie Benton Fremont will have a pension.

The house committee on invalid pensions has authorized a favorable report on the house bill granting a pension of $2,000 per year to the widow of Gen. Fremont.

Petition from Army Officers.
WASHINGTON CITY, July 18.—The secretary of war transmitted to the senate Friday the petitions of a large number of officers of the United States army, praying that the number of appointments at large to the United States Military academy be increased to twenty, and that such appointments be restricted to the sons of officers and soldiers and to the lineal descendants of officers of volunteer forces of the late war.

Land Grant Forfeiture Bill.
WASHINGTON CITY, July 18.—The house
Thursday passed the land grant forfeiture bill. The debate, while it lasted, was a lively one.

The Mine Workers at Columbus.
COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 18.—The executive committee of the National Mine Workers' association Thursday adopted resolutions deprecating the opposition of Labor and vice versa, and urging the two bodies to get together on friendly terms.
The general adoption of the eight-hour
law was also recommended.

Blaine Sells Some Stock.
GLASGOW, Va., July 18.—The Natural Bridge property has been sold to a Massachusetts and Virginia syndicate for $200,- 000. It was purchased from Col. H. C.
Parsons and the Hon. James G. Blaine,
who have owned it for a number of years.

His Fortune No Use to Him.
AKRON, O., July 18.—Arthur Pickard, a self-confessed burglar waiting sentence in the Portage county jail, has fallen heir to an estate in Lancaster, England, worth $60,000.

Ran Off with Another Man's Wife.
MASON CITY, Iowa, July 18.—A. D.
Strong was arrested for running away with the wife of Mr. Franklin, a resident of Rockford, Ills. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin were married four weeks ago.

THE FIGHT FOR A BABY.

The Infant Stolen Several Times—A Shooting Affray.

DALLAS, Tex., July 18.—Excitement in the celebrated Payne baby case reached a maximum Thursday afternoon when Lester Payne shot down his brother-in-law, Will Estes, in the leading commercial street of this city. Lester Payne and Lizzie Estes were married here five years ago, and then went to Los Angeles, Cal.
A few weeks ago Lester Payne took his 2-year-old baby to a suburb and informed his wife that it was probably drowned in a lake. This threw the wife into convulsions. The chief of police took the matter in hand and learned that Lester Payne's mother had been in the city.

Given to Its Mother.
The body was traced to El Paso in her possession, where she was arrested on the charge of kidnapping. Detectives started back with her and the baby, but at Eagle Ford its father slipped on board of the train and stole the child. A few days later Payne's father arrived from California, and after remaining in the city three days disappeared. He was discovered with the baby in the Indian territory and arrested. The baby was brought back and turned over to its mother, who now has it.
Thursday Will Estes, a brother of Mrs. Payne, struck Lester, whereupon the latter drew a pistol and shot Estes in the side, inflicting an ugly but not fatal wound. He also shot John Kanady in the arm accidentally.

Minnesota Farmers' Alliance Ticket.
ST. PAUL, Minn., July 18.—The Minnesota Farmers' alliance convention completed its work shortly before 6 o'clock Thursday night and adjourned. Late in the day a compromise candidate for governor was selected, and after that it was smooth sailing. S. M. Owen, of Minneapolis, editor of Farm, Stock and Home,
was the man selected to head the ticket.
The other nominees are as follows: Lieutenant governor, J. O. Barrett, of Brown's Valley; secretary of state, M. Wesenberg, of Duluth; auditor, P. H. Rahilly, of Washburn; treasurer, Eric Mattison, of Lac qui Parle; attorney general, J. M. Burlingame, of Oatman; clerk of the supreme court, F. W. Kohers, of Lesueur.

The President Didn't Say It.
LONDON, July 18.—In the house of commons Thursday Gourley, Liberal member for Sunderland, inquired what degree
of truth there was in the published cablegram to the effect that President Harrison had declared the intention of the United States government to deal summarily with British sealers in Behring sea. Gorst, parliamentary secretary for the India office,
replied that the government had not received a report of such a statement having been made by President Harrison. Negotiations on the Behring sea matter were still in progress.

Swindled on a Large Scale.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 18.—For numerous years Cyrus Craig, of Maryville, has been employed as local agent for Bartlett Bros., extensive brokers and real estate dealers of this city. It has been discovered that he has defrauded them, and others out of a sum variously estimated from $100,000 to $175,000. One of his favorite schemes was to change the abstracts and procure loans
upon lands which were already platted with mortgages. He would purchase these lands, make the loan and pocket the money. It is said Mr. Craig is now in Kentucky.

A Sleeping Prisoner.
HUNTINGTON, Ohio, July 18.—The case of young Ed Church, the prisoner, is attracting attention here. Six months ago
the Church family—consisting of father,
mother and three children—were poisoned with arsenic, two of them dying. Ed Church, the 16-year-old son, was arrested and confessed the crime. He was imprisoned here, and since then has slept from twenty to twenty-three hours every day.
Church has to be awakened and forced to eat, and frequently it is impossible to break his slumber. The case is a puzzle to physicians.

They Wanted Original Packages.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 18.—Sunday morning ten young farmers went to the drug store of Dr. Rountree, in Linwood, a little village in Leavenworth county, and demanded several original packages of liquor. The doctor ordered them away,
and they began to break up the drug bottles. Rountree drew a revolver, and as Ed Ford started toward him, fired. Just then Henry Herald, another of the party, jumped between the two, and received the bullet full in his right breast. He died later. Rountree is in jail.

Fire in the Western Union Office.
NEW YORK, July 18.—Friday morning
shortly before 7 o'clock flames burst from the switch board of the Western Union Telegraph company's operating room on the seventh floor of their magnificent building, corner of Broadway and Dey streets. So rapidly did they extend to the woodwork that the escape of the employees
by the stairways was cut off and a number were lowered from the windows by means of ropes to the tops of adjoining buildings.
Three floors were gutted and the loss will be heavy.

Milwaukee Prohibitionists.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 18.—A mass
convention of Milwaukee county Prohibitionists was held Thursday evening. Fifteen delegates were chosen from the eighteen persons present to attend the state convention of the party, to be held in Madison next Tuesday. After the usual resolutions of the party concerning prohibition, woman suffrage and sympathy with the labor party, a resolution endorsing the Bennett law was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Lower Colored Odd Fellows.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 18.—Fully 2,000
colored people from neighboring cities attended the closing day of the three-days' celebration of the eightieth anniversary of the formation of the colored Odd Fellows' lodge here Thursday. A parade took place in the afternoon, and later the afternoon was addressed by Mayor Duncan.

Safe Delivery at Cairo, Ills.
CAIRO, Ills., July 18.—Eight persons confined in the Pulaski county jail at Mount City, seven miles above here, escaped Thursday night. Some outside party smuggled a rope to them and they reached the ground through the scut-hole. None of them have been recaptured.

Found Dead in a Mine.
ISHPEMING, Mich., July 18.—Tom Donovan, a young miner employed in Winthrop mine, was found dead in No. 7 shaft
of the Lake Superior mine late at night.
There is a strong suspicion of foul play.

Dieting.
Many remedies for kidney trouble prescribe a rigid system of dieting and a total cessation from coffee, tea, and kindred beverages, with a long rule to be observed,
which, if violated, will neutralize the effect of the medicine. Now is the dangerous for adults to suddenly alter their habits of living. The system has become used to it
and any violent change is
only apt to bring dyspepsia,
heart trouble or other derangements of the organs. In taking Reid's German Cough and Kidney Cure it is simply necessary to be moderate.
If you eat too much, eat less,
but do not starve yourself, or
"knock off entirely." If you drink too much, drink less whether it be coffee, tea, or any other beverage, then take the cure according to directions and it will heal you of your trouble. This is especially true in summer. It is at this season of the year that persons take cold easily and lay the foundation of subsequent diseases. A sudden change in the weather ex-posure to showers, change of clothing sleeping in draughts
gives them a slight cold.
They neglect it, and when fall sets in they are ready to be laid up with a cough or
they suffer from pleurisy, or catarrh, or bronchitis.
All these come from a cold neglected. If at the beginning the sufferer will take Reid's German Cough and Kidney Cure according to directions he can and will avoid these troubles and escape any ill effects from
the heats of summer, for it is not only a safeguard against cold but it builds up the system and enables it to resist disease.

STANDARD ROTARY SHUTTLE

SEWING MACHINE

Finest of the line, runs one-half faster, one half easier and makes one-half the noise of the old style shuttle machines. The continuous rotary motion is the only true principle
for a sewing machine.
The world's oldest veterans in sewing machine invention and manufacturing are at the head of the "STANDARD" sewing machine company. Keep up with the times and get the best. It will pay you better to buy the "STANDARD" than to receive one of the old style machines as a gift. A rotary principle applied in the sewing machine is as great an improvement as the modern hand
saw is to the old fashioned jig saw.

THE REVIEW POSTOFFICE.

That Big Thorn Tree.
DECATUR, Ill., July 19, 1890.
EDITOR REVIEW—There is a big thorn tree across the sidewalk on North Water street, between Herkimer and Center streets, blown down by the wind storm the other day. It is an intolerable nuisance to all passersby, and I wish THE REVIEW would call on Superintendent Alexander for action. We can keep all the weeds mowed up here, but the big tree is too heavy for us.

Big Barbecue.
The committee appointed to arrange the F. M. B. A. barbecue and picnic met yesterday at Hotel Brunswick. It was decided to have a big old fashioned barbecue on Wednesday, September 3d, 1890. Everybody is invited and all are urged to bring baskets well filled. No one will be allowed to go away hungry, and arrangements will be made to have a big time.

J. W. Thornhill and R. H. Hill were appointed a committee on invitation and solicitation. J. W. Thornhill, John Rainey and H. C. Allen were appointed committee on music and grounds. C. J. Lindley and E. A. Wilson and the president of the National F. M. B. A. have been invited to be present and speak.

The committee on grounds after the meeting secured Oakland Park, so the meeting will be held there.

The Horse is a Table Animal.
The interest which was manifested in the races last week show that a fine horse is loved by everybody. But who of us can afford to keep a fine horse? There are certainly many who cannot. To such, whether lady or gentleman, the bicycle comes as a happy substitute, costing nothing for keeping, always ready and as speedy as any of the horses. The number of bicycles that have been sold in Decatur since Mr. Ewing opened the Bicycle Headquarters is the best proof of how rapidly the people are realizing this fact. Of course an accident may happen once in a while, but then the repair department under management of that skillful mechanic, Paul Hickisch, can speedily make the break as good as new and the cost won't be enough to signify. Mr. H. Will also attend to all kinds of fine machinery and will guarantee satisfaction.

Will Measure Your Eye.
Prof. J. Thomas, the optician, received a new machine yesterday that is attracting a great deal of attention in medical and scientific circles. It is a device for measuring the strength of the human eye, and is called the "Dioptric Eye Meter." By a series of delicate adjustments the skillful operator is enabled to speedily determine just what artificial aid the eye needs to secure perfect vision, and if you need glasses at all, he can tell you exactly what strength you need. This is the first apparatus of this kind brought to Decatur, and Professor Thomas is to be congratulated upon his enterprise. Those who have a curiosity to examine it or who wish to have their eyes tested, are invited to call at Professor Thomas' office on North Water street, opposite First M. E. church, and have their eyes examined free of charge.

One Effect of The Races
which has attracted so much of the attention of Decatur people during the past week, has been an increased interest in fine horses. Those who are not able to keep horses of their own and yet wish to enjoy the pleasure of handling the ribbons, should be informed that they can be gratified by calling up telephone 419, and ordering a rig from E. B. Dimock's livery stable. He has no worn out horses. They are all handsome, stylish animals, carefully trained, that can travel with ease and speed, and at the same time are so gentle that a child can drive them. His livery barn is at 156 East Cerro Gordo street.

A Party.
A large number of young folks enjoyed a dancing party at the residence of William and Edward Dunn, five miles east of this Friday evening. Everybody reports a delightful time. Dalton City, Mt. Zion and Decatur were represented. Those present from Decatur were Misses Lillie Dunn, Mary Finn, Mary Murphy, Alice Sullivan, Annie Burns, Lizzie Burns, Miss Mame and Rhel Grace, James and William Dunn, John O'Hern, John Dwyer, and James Welch. Refreshments were served at 12 o'clock.

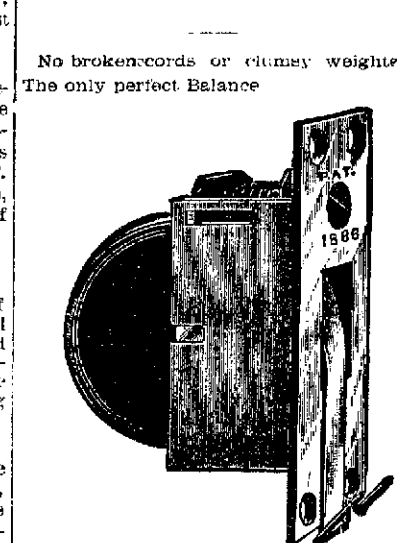

Cancer of the Nose.
In 1875 a sore appeared on my nose, and grew rapidly. As my father had cancer, and consulted my physician. His treatment did no good, and the sore grew larger and worse in every way until I had concluded that I was to die from its effects. I was persuaded to take S. S. S., and a few bottles cured me. This was after all the doctors and other medicines had failed. I have had no return of the cancer.
